

Regression Channel

Line of best fit using linear regression, with lines one standard deviation above and below.

The chart below show Federal Express (FDX) closing prices for two years. The upper and lower lines are one standard deviation from the best fit line. The final closing prices indicate to us that we have a larger than normal margin-of-safety at the current price levels is we want to take a long position.

